DAVID ZAVALA,

Plaintiff,

v.

WARDEN C. NASH, et al.,
Defendants.

CIVIL ACTION NO.
1:22-CV-3082-SDG-RDC

ORDER

Federal prisoner David Zavala has filed a pro se civil rights complaint [Doc. 1] and an application for permission to proceed in forma pauperis (IFP) [Doc. 2]. It is noteworthy that Zavala's IFP application omits the statutorily-required copy of his inmate account statement certified by an authorized prison official, see 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(2), and includes instead Zavala's own "self-certified" statement, see [Doc. 2 at 3]. This alone is a sufficient basis on which to deny Zavala's IFP application. Moreover, even accepting as true the "self-certified" statement, it appears that Zavala had the financial wherewithal to pay the $402 due in case initiation fees because he acknowledges that in the period preceding the filing of his complaint he had "$1,200 deposited into [his] inmate account." See [Doc. 3 at 3].

“Leave to proceed IFP is, and always has been, the exception rather than the rule.” Rivera v. Allin, 144 F.3d 719, 722 (11th Cir. 1998), abrogated in part on other grounds by Jones v. Bock, 549 U.S. 199, 214 (2007).)]. IFP status exists for litigants who are genuinely “unable to pay such fees.” 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(1) (emphasis added).

“There is no question that proceeding [IFP] is a privilege, not a right.” Camp v. Oliver, 798 F.3d 434, 437 (11th Cir. 1986); see also Daker v. Robinson, 694 F. App’x 768, 769 (11th Cir. 2017) (same). For a prisoner, the “privilege” of proceeding IFP includes both (A) a reduction in his financial obligation from $402 to $350 (because only the $350 filing fee but not the $52 in administrative fees may be collected), and (B) an open-ended period for payment in installments (which in many cases means the $350 filing fee is never fully paid, either). See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(b)(1)–(2). Furthermore, the “privilege” of proceeding IFP for all litigants (including prisoners) shifts from the litigant to “[t]he officers of the court” the obligation to “issue and serve all process.” 28 U.S.C. § 1915(d).

Consequently, “a trial court has broad discretion in denying an application to proceed [IFP],” Pace v. Evans, 709 F.2d 1428, 1429 (11th Cir. 1983), and the privilege of proceeding IFP “should be conferred ‘sparingly,’” Daker, 694 F. App’x at 769 (quoting Martinez v. Kristi Kleaners, Inc., 364 F.3d 1305, 1306 (11th Cir.

2004)). An affidavit of indigence “will be held sufficient” only “if it represents that the litigant, because of his poverty, is unable to pay for the court fees and costs, and to support and provide necessities for himself and his dependents.” Martinez, 364 F.3d at 1307.

As a prisoner, all of Zavala’s necessities are provided for him. Thus, the $1,200 that passed through his inmate account was available for payment of the $402 due in case initiation fees.

It is not a valid objection that Zavala may already have spent the money deposited into his inmate account on other things, such as commissary items. The United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit observed, in a case cited with approval by the Eleventh Circuit in Rivera v. Allin, that:

Requiring prisoners to make economic decisions about filing lawsuits does not deny access to the courts; it merely places the indigent prisoner in a position similar to that faced by those whose basic costs of living are not paid by the state. Those living outside of prisons cannot file a lawsuit every time they suffer a real or imagined slight. Instead, they must weigh the importance of redress before resorting to the legal system. If a prisoner determines that his funds are better spent on other items rather than filing a civil rights suit, “he has demonstrated an implied evaluation of that suit” that the courts should be entitled to honor.

Roller v. Gunn, 107 F.3d 227, 233 (4th Cir. 1997) (quoting Lumbert v. Ill. Dep’t of Corr., 827 F.3d 257, 260 (7th Cir. 1987)).

Under these circumstances, Zavala has not demonstrated that he ought to enjoy the privilege of proceeding IFP.

Therefore, I DENY Zavala's IFP application [Doc. 2], and I ORDER Zavala TO PAY the $402 due in case initiation fees WITHIN TWENTY-ONE DAYS of the entry date of this Order.

I caution Zavala that failure promptly to inform the Court of any change of address while this civil action is pending or to comply fully with a court order may result in dismissal. See LR 41.2(B) & 41.3(A)(2), NDGa.

Plaintiff,

v.

WARDEN C. NASH, et al.,
Defendants.

CIVIL ACTION NO.
1:22-CV-3082-SDG-RDC

FINAL REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

Federal inmate David Zavala is a serial pro se litigant well familiar with the procedural requirements for initiating a new civil action or appeal. See www.pacer.gov accessed Jan. 31, 2023; restricted to “Eleventh Circuit”). Yet when Zavala initiated this civil action, he did not pay the $402 due in case initiation fees and he omitted from his application for permission to proceed in forma pauperis (IFP) the statutorily required copy of his inmate account statement certified by an authorized prison official, see 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(2), attaching instead his own “self-certified” statement, see [Doc. 2 at 3].

In an Order entered on November 30, 2022, I noted that this omission alone warranted denial of Zavala’s IFP application, and I further noted that even his own “self-certified” statement indicated that he “had the financial wherewithal to pay the $402 due in case initiation fees” because he acknowledged receipt of $1,200 in the year before he initiated this civil action. [Doc. 3 at 1]. I then summarized case law in this circuit that has held that “[l]eave to proceed IFP is, and always has been, the exception rather than the rule,” that it “is a privilege, not a right,” and that it should be “conferred ‘sparingly.’” [Id. at 2–3 (citations omitted)]. Accordingly, I denied Zavala’s IFP application and ordered him to pay $402 by December 21, 2022. [Doc. 3 at 4].

Zavala responded not by complying with the November 30, 2022 Order, but rather by filing an “Objection to Previous Order and Petition For Exten[s]ion of Time to Pay Filing Fee.” [Doc. 4]. Zavala contends that the USP-Atlanta “prison administration blatantly refused to issue & certify my inmate account statement” and that, in any event, he no longer has the $1,200 that he previously acknowledged receiving. [Id. at passim]. These statements are difficult to credit. The same USP-Atlanta “prison administration” about which Zavala now complains provided and certified his inmate account statement in an earlier case in this Court, see Zavala v. Spindle, No. 1:20-cv-4416-SDG (N.D. Ga. 2020) [Doc. 2 therein], and routinely certifies inmate account statements for other prisoners who initiate civil actions in this Court. But even if Zavala’s claim about an atypical lack of cooperation by USP-Atlanta prison officials were true, Zavala’s own prior filings and the record of proceedings in his other cases contradict his present claim to be unable to pay $402.

For instance, comparison of the inmate account statement certified by an authorized prison official in Zavala v. Spindle, id., to Zavala’s “self-certified” statement [Doc. 2] in this civil action indicates that Zavala’s income while in prison has markedly increased in recent years. Furthermore, Zavala’s payment of the full amount of a filing fee in installments in Zavala v. Spindle (which by statute was limited to increments of 20% of monthly deposits into his inmate account, see 28 U.S.C. § 1915(b)(2), which implies that he received at least 5 times as much income as he paid in fees), also indicates that Zavala’s recent income while in prison has far exceeded that necessary to pay the $402 due in case initiation fees here. And the fact that Zavala paid $244.20 in April 2022 in Zavala v. Spindle belies his claim now that “the meager funds were long gone over 6 months prior to actually receiving the forms so I could file the complaint,” see [Doc. 4 at 1], because he initiated this civil action in August 2022 (i.e., less than 4 months later), see [Doc. 1].

Therefore, I RECOMMEND that this civil action be DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE because Zavala failed to comply with a court order directing him to pay the $402 due in case initiation fees by December 21, 2022. See [Doc. 3]; see also LR 41.3(A)(2), NDGa.

Because dismissal without prejudice will afford Zavala an opportunity to refile his complaint whenever he is prepared to pay the $402 due in case initiation fees, I DENY his motion for an extension of time to do so “until Spring of 2023.”

[Doc. 4 at 2].

I DIRECT the Clerk to terminate the referral of this civil action to me.

SO REPORTED, RECOMMENDED, ORDERED, AND DIRECTED,
this 31st day of January, 2023.

Civil Action No.
1:22-cv-03082-SDG

ORDER

This matter is before the Court for consideration of the Order and Final Report and Recommendation entered by United States Magistrate Judge Regina D. Cannon [ECF 5], which recommends that this civil action be DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE because Zavala failed to comply with a court order directing him to pay the $402 due in case initiation fees by December 21, 2022.

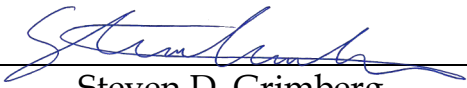

In February 2023 Zavala filed a motion for extension of time to file objections [ECF 7], which the Court granted [ECF 8], giving Zavala until June 15 to do so. Zavala did not timely file objections. Instead, almost one month past his extended deadline, Zavala filed another motion for extension of time [ECF 9] and simultaneously filed objections along with it [ECF 10].

Zavala's objections are untimely, notwithstanding the extended deadline granted by the Court, and will not be considered. Under 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1) and Fed. R. Civ. P. 72, this Court reviewed the R&R for plain error and found none.

Accordingly, this Court ADOPTS the Report and Recommendation [ECF 5]. Zavala's motion for extension of time to file objections [ECF 9] is DENIED. This case is DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

The Clerk of Court is DIRECTED to close this case.
